To Teachers

This is like an interview bingo. The students choose three things from each category to put into the appropriate column, and then they take it in turns to invite other members of the class.

Ask someone in the class if they want to go to a rock concert for example, if they have rock concert written on their sheet they accept the invitation, if not they respectfully decline.

Either go round the class till everyone has had a go or till there a a certain number of bingos. Check the games and activities sections for a few other suggestions.
